Teacher Training Compensation

Additional Compensation and the Fair Labor Standards Act

Teachers, like administrators, accountants, specialists, engineers, and other professionals are exempt from the additional compensation for additional work provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act. If an individual's primary duty is teaching, tutoring, instructing or lecturing in the activity of imparting knowledge, and if they are employed and engaged in this activity as a teacher in an educational establishment they are exempt under the act. Exempt teachers include, but are not limited to, athletic coaches, regular academic teachers; kindergarten or nursery school teachers; teachers of gifted or disabled children; teachers of skilled and semi-skilled trades and occupations; home economics teachers; and vocal or instrument music teachers. The salary and salary basis requirements do not apply to bona fide teachers.<sup>1</sup> Exempt employees can be required to complete mandatory training during the contract year, even outside of regular contract hours, as a condition of their employment. While the employer is allowed to compensate exempt employees for attending additional meetings or training, it is not required under the law. The compensation received through an exempt employee's salary is regarded as payment for attendance at such meetings.

Payment for Mandatory Training

While the District cannot guarantee receipt of additional payment to attend every required training meeting or professional development activity held on a day other than a contract day, the following guidelines are provided to establish reasonable and consistent treatment of teachers when such meetings are necessary.

Meetings and Training Required by Law and/or District Policy

As a condition of employment, or as required by law for certification, teachers are required to attend and complete new-hire, annual, and periodic trainings without additional compensation (even if the training must be completed outside of normal work-time) to include, but not limited to, the following:

3. New Hire Orientation;
4. Health Benefits Enrollment (if eligible);
5. Utah Retirement System Tier 2 Orientation; and,
6. Training, professional development, or orientations required by other statute or administrative rule.

Non-Statutory/ Non-Policy - Training

Periodically implementation of non-statutory or non-policy required programs necessitate the need for training about educational software, curriculum, learning strategies, or other information. These training events may be scheduled on a non-contract day. The following standards will be used for compensation and attendance:

Mandatory Training Compensation

Mandatory training is required as a condition of employment. Unless teacher compensation is waived by the District Superintendent as an exigency of the District’s educational program due to of lack of funding and critical need or as a meeting or training required by law and/or District Policy , mandatory teacher attendance at non-contract day training activities will result in additional teacher compensation at the following rates:

The sponsor or department offering a voluntary training class or event may, but is not required, to pay teachers for attendance. If compensation is offered for voluntary attendance, it may not exceed the amounts in the Mandatory Training pay chart listed above.

Notice of Mandatory Training
